Message from the President

The past year has been a transformative journey, marked by challenges in post-pandemic recovery and new program expansions. Despite these hurdles, we have remained steadfast in our mission to bring meaningful change to the lives of communities across Ganjam and Sundargarh districts, Odisha. Through our dedicated efforts, we ensured access to vaccinations for vulnerable individuals by providing registration and transportation support, safeguarding their health and well-being. We also extended social protection programs to marginalized groups—including single women, people with disabilities, transgender persons, the elderly, and ultra-poor families—ensuring that no one is left behind.

Our collaboration with local governments has strengthened child-friendly governance, increasing accountability for children's development. In Rangeilunda, Purusottampur, and Khallikote blocks, children and women actively participated in local planning and decision-making, fostering inclusive dialogue spaces for marginalized communities. Additionally, our Quality Education for All initiative has enhanced learning proficiency, reaching over 7,000 children and 60 schools, while working closely with educators and school leaders to strengthen the school system.

Beyond education, we have expanded efforts in coastal, tribal, and remote rural areas, improving disaster preparedness, risk-informed planning, and resilience-building against climate change. Our work in Forest Rights Act advocacy and the promotion of Agriculture Production Clusters has empowered communities in Sundargarh, fostering sustainable livelihoods and resource management. Through perseverance and commitment, we continue to drive positive change.

I extend my deepest gratitude to our supporters, donors, partners, advisors, and dedicated team for their unwavering efforts. Together, we will achieve greater milestones in the year ahead.

Lokanath Misra
President

Message from the Secretary

Reflecting on the past year, we are reminded of the profound impact that collective action can achieve. In the Ganjam and Sundargarh districts of Odisha, we have reached some of the most vulnerable members of our society—elderly individuals, widows, unmarried and divorced women, persons with disabilities, transpersons, and ultra-poor families. By securing access to vital social protection schemes, we have strengthened their ability to lead lives with dignity and support.

Communities have taken significant strides in child-centered development, with 32 Gram Panchayats now actively allocating resources to uphold children's rights. Through our guidance, local governance structures have become more accountable, empowering children and women in Rangeilunda, Purusottampur, and Khallikote blocks to participate meaningfully in local decision-making.

Our commitment to youth empowerment continues to bear fruit. Through the 'Adolescent Empowerment Programme' initiative, 5,341 adolescents have gained leadership skills and life-changing education, equipping them to challenge child marriage and advocate for gender equality. These young voices are leading change in their communities.

Education remains a cornerstone of our work. With the 'Quality Education for All' initiative, over 7,000 children across 68 schools have experienced tangible improvements in learning. Our collaboration with educators and school leaders has fostered enriching environments that pave the way for academic excellence.

Recognizing the urgency of climate resilience, we have extended our reach to 32 Gram Panchayats, supporting disaster preparedness and environmental sustainability. By strengthening local service providers and fostering community resilience, we are paving the way for a more sustainable future.

Through challenges and triumphs, our unwavering dedication to marginalized communities drives us forward. We extend our deepest gratitude to our donors, partners, advisors, and committed team members. Together, we will continue pushing boundaries and creating lasting change in the year ahead.

Our Programme

Ensuring Access to COVID-19 Vaccination for Vulnerable and Marginalized Communities in Ganjam, Odisha

Youth for Social Development has launched a program to bridge the gap between vaccine eagerness and hesitancy, ensuring access to COVID-19 vaccination for vulnerable populations in remote rural areas. By engaging local governments and healthcare providers, the initiative aims for 100% vaccination coverage. Key strategies include sharing crucial information through IEC activities, organizing community consultations to address vaccine myths, and highlighting the importance of immunization during the pandemic. Volunteers and GP facilitators conduct door-to-door visits to assist with registration and outreach. Additionally, the initiative identifies marginalized groups and provides transportation support to vaccination sites. Collaboration with the CDMO and district administration ensures adherence to Ministry of Health and Family Welfare guidelines, advocating for effective implementation. By reaching the last mile, this effort strengthens vaccination drives and promotes better public health outcomes.

In 15 Gram Panchayats, 81,500 people (74% of intervention areas) gained knowledge about COVID-19 vaccination. As a result, 87% (40,510) opted for vaccination and received their first dose, while 40% (23,670) received their second dose. 40,118 vulnerable and marginalized individuals were assisted with vaccination registration, and 8,361 of the most at-risk were identified and supported with transportation to vaccination centers. Among those supported with registration, 95% completed their first dose, and 75% successfully received the second dose. This initiative significantly improved vaccine access, ensuring that even the most vulnerable communities were included in the immunization process.

Strengthening Social Protection for Marginalized Communities

Our commitment to inclusive social protection continues to uplift vulnerable communities in Purusottampur and Khallikote blocks. This year, we have positively impacted 20,320 individuals, ensuring access to critical welfare programs. By supporting elderly individuals, widows, unmarried and divorced women, persons with disabilities, transpersons, and ultra-poor families, we have worked tirelessly to bridge gaps in social security. Through citizen facilitation centers, we streamlined document collection and applications, empowering volunteers and community leaders to advocate for priority inclusion.

Our efforts have strengthened MGNREGA, NFSA, and essential services such as water, sanitation, healthcare, and education. By leveraging social accountability tools like the Community Score Card, we fostered transparent dialogues between service providers and citizens, enhancing accountability and empowerment. This approach has improved access to government programs, ensuring those in need receive essential support.

This year, we achieved by facilitating inclusion of 180 individuals in pension schemes, supported 426 families in food security applications, and facilitated 15 beneficiaries in Labour Welfare Schemes. Under MGNREGA, 930 new job cards were issued, adding 1,584 family members to the workforce. Additionally, 320 households received tap-at-home drinking water connections, and 12 families secured homes under Rural Housing Schemes (PMAY). These efforts continue to strengthen social protection, service delivery, and governance, ensuring equitable access for marginalized communities.

People-led Planning and Local Decision Making

These efforts continue to strengthen social protection, service delivery, and governance, ensuring equitable access for marginalized communities.

Strengthening Social Protection and Resilience for Children and Families

With the support of UNICEF India, we launched a comprehensive initiative to enhance social protection and resilience-building among vulnerable children and families in Rangeilunda block, Ganjam district. Through this initiative, we have identified the most at-risk families and children, ensuring their inclusion in various essential welfare schemes, including pension programs, food security assistance, livelihood protection, and support for orphaned and single-parent children.

This year, our interventions have had a significant impact. We strengthened community empowerment across 32 Gram Panchayats (GPs), identifying 1,357 households and 4,009 family members. We facilitated 41 applications for inclusion in the National Food Security Act (NFSA) and State Food Security Act (SFSA) schemes. Additionally, through collaboration with stakeholders, 968 applications were processed, ensuring families secured job cards under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA).

Our commitment to inclusion in social protection schemes extended to vulnerable groups, supporting 4,951 individuals facing disabilities, widowhood, divorce, and old age in accessing social security pensions. We successfully processed 3,374 applications under the Madhubabu Pension Yojana (MBBY) and National Social Assistance Program (NSAP), with 1,608 individuals successfully enrolled in various pension schemes. These efforts reinforced financial security, social inclusion, and resilience-building, ensuring that marginalized communities receive essential support and equitable opportunities for sustainable development.

Adolescent Empowerment Programme

Over the past year, the Adolescent Empowerment Programme has made significant strides in strengthening youth collectives across 32 Gram Panchayats (GPs), enabling young individuals to recognize key social issues, engage in child-friendly spaces, and participate effectively in Gram Sabhas. A total of 1,623 adolescent boys and girls received training on child rights, the GPDP framework, and the planning process for the Children's Action Plan, empowering them to contribute meaningfully to community development.

The 'Advika' groups have played a crucial role in this transformation, equipping adolescents with the knowledge and confidence to advocate for their rights and entitlements. Many participants have successfully negotiated with their families regarding their education and career aspirations, fostering a more supportive environment for their personal growth. Additionally, 1,714 adolescents of collectives have actively engaged in Advika groups across 233 Anganwadi Centers (AWCs) every Saturday. These sessions have enhanced their awareness of critical topics, including nutrition, health and hygiene, life skills, substance abuse prevention, managing peer pressure, child rights, relevant legislations, gender stereotypes, and various social harms.

Through sustained efforts and collaboration with community stakeholders, the programme continues to foster leadership among adolescents, ensuring they emerge as informed and confident individuals who drive positive change within their communities. The collective achievements of these young advocates reaffirm our commitment to nurturing a generation that is aware, empowered, and ready to lead.

Child-friendly Gram Panchayat

With the support of UNICEF India, we launched a comprehensive initiative to strengthen child-responsive planning and resilience-building in 32 Gram Panchayats (GPs) in Rangeilunda block, Ganjam district. By fostering active engagement, we empowered children to participate in local decision-making, enabling them to plan their development and create safe community spaces. The formation of Children and Adolescent Collectives played a vital role in awareness-building, advocacy, and capacity development, equipping children and families to protect their rights, advocate for equitable opportunities, and navigate risks from disasters and pandemics.

Community participation was a key driver of our success. In 13 GPs, 494 children actively participated in Gram Sabhas, presenting child-friendly action plans. Additionally, 1,623 adolescent boys and girls from 32 GPs were trained on child rights, child-friendly spaces, the Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP), and the planning process for the Children's Action Plan. As a result, 25 GPs successfully completed their Gram Panchayat Children Action Plan, demonstrating strong stakeholder collaboration among frontline workers, government officials, children, and parents. Our disaster risk reduction efforts further capacitated 1,683 individuals and families across 32 GPs, integrating risk-informed planning into the GPDP, strengthening community resilience.

Capacity-building efforts also played a pivotal role. 1,449 PRI members, frontline workers, stakeholders, and children were trained on child rights, child-friendly and women-friendly Gram Panchayats. Notably, 61 women PRI members actively addressed social issues identified by children, fostering inclusive governance. The year 2023 marked significant progress in sustainable development, driven by equity, empowerment, and resilience-building.

Child-friendly District Sundargarh

The Child-Friendly District (CFD) model in Sundargarh is designed to ensure child survival, development, protection, and participation. Inspired by the Child-Friendly Gram Panchayat (CFGP) initiative, this model creates a safe and supportive environment for children and their families. By engaging local governments and service providers, children can actively voice their concerns and influence decision-making processes. This approach fosters shared responsibility among stakeholders, encouraging discussions and collective action to accelerate child-centered development. It advocates for the effective utilization of government resources, enabling children to contribute to policy-making and monitor progress. By prioritizing participatory development, Sundargarh serves as a model for child-led governance.

With support from the District Mineral Foundation, Sundargarh, we have strengthened child-focused engagement, improving access to essential services. Over the past year, 129 Gram Panchayat-level Children and Adolescent Collectives were formed across eight blocks, bringing together 50-70 adolescents in each Gram Panchayat through structured engagement. To support informed decision-making, Gram Panchayat Fact Sheets were developed in 129 GPs, covering six critical areas—nutrition, education, health, water and sanitation, child protection, and participation. Additionally, Block Fact Sheets were prepared in five blocks using child-friendly indicators to guide interventions.

To ensure accountability and coordination, Child Rights Coordination Committees (CRCCs) were established at the Gram Panchayat and Block levels. Training sessions were conducted in 76 GPs and five blocks, equipping members with knowledge on their roles, responsibilities, and child-friendly strategies.

This initiative successfully mobilized 10,500 adolescents and children, engaged 769 frontline workers, 272 PRI members, and 387 government officials in structured participation. Their collective involvement strengthens child-centered governance and accelerates meaningful development. By fostering collaboration between children, government officials, and community stakeholders, this model empowers young voices, ensuring they play an active role in shaping their future. Sundargarh's commitment to creating a child-friendly district sets an example for participatory, inclusive development.

Education : Foundation Learning

To address the learning gaps caused by prolonged school closures during the pandemic, we launched the Quality Education for All programme to enhance foundational literacy and numeracy among primary school children (Grades 1–5) in disadvantaged communities. Using the Teaching at the Right Level (TaRL) approach, our trained team, in partnership with Pratham Education Foundation, intervened in 60 schools across Puruostampur, Khallikote, and Rangeilunda blocks. We assessed over 10,000 students using ASER tools, grouped them based on proficiency levels, and conducted structured 30–40 day learning camps, benefiting 6,056 children aged 6–14 years.

Beyond direct student engagement, we collaborated with 336 teachers to equip them with TaRL methodologies, ensuring sustained learning improvements. Recognizing the importance of parental and community involvement, we engaged 2,617 parents across 19 gram panchayats to share insights on their children's academic progress and encourage home-based learning support. Additionally, we worked closely with School Management Committees (SMCs) to clarify roles and responsibilities, fostering teacher accountability and effective school governance.

Our outreach also extended to education officials at block and district levels, where we shared our teaching approach and student learning outcomes with 17 Cluster Resource Centre Coordinators (CRCCs), 6 Assistant Block Education Officers (ABEOs), and 3 Block Education Officers (BEOs). Through these collaborative efforts, the programme continues to bridge learning gaps, ensuring a more inclusive and effective educational experience for young learners. Among the major outcome

- 2,667 primary school children (Grades I–V) enhanced their oracy and numeracy skills.
- 2,014 children in primary grades achieved fluency in reading.
- 74 student and teacher learning materials were developed to create a joyful learning environment.
- 110 learning activities were successfully conducted during the project period.

Education : Community Learning Centre

Our Community Learning and Support Centres (CLSCs) initiative is dedicated to providing educational support to children aged 6–14 years (Standard I–VII) from economically disadvantaged and marginalized backgrounds. Many of these children are school dropouts, irregular attendees, or struggle with low proficiency levels. Through close collaboration with government school teachers and local leaders, we work to improve educational outcomes in remote communities. Across seven CLSCs, we identify and enroll 78 school dropouts, child laborers, and students with learning gaps, addressing the underlying causes of poor education-seeking behavior. Our approach emphasizes community engagement and direct intervention in ten government schools, fostering a more inclusive learning environment.

At the CLSCs, we implement activity-based learning to enhance children's engagement and academic progress. Currently, 233 children benefit from our centers, which operate two to three hours daily and four hours on weekends. Our efforts focus on strengthening foundational skills such as reading comprehension, writing, numeracy, and English-speaking. To support this, we provide teaching and learning materials (TLM) to both the CLSCs and partnered schools. Additionally, weekend learning walks offer children opportunities to explore and observe local surroundings—animals, birds, housing structures, and plant life—followed by guided discussions that deepen their understanding of their environment.

Beyond academics, our initiative nurtures children's emotional, cognitive, social, and physical development. By fostering a play-based, hands-on, and community-centered learning experience, we create an environment that encourages curiosity, confidence, and a lifelong love for learning. These efforts equip students with the skills necessary to navigate future academic challenges while empowering them to thrive in broader life pursuits.

Sustainable Forest Management through Community Forest Rights

Under the Forest Rights Act (FRA), 2006, Adivasi and other forest-dwelling communities can claim individual, community, and forest resource rights. This applies to reserved and protected forest lands, sanctuaries, national parks, and farmer-owned forests recorded within village boundaries. In collaboration with ITDA Sundargarh, volunteers from Youth for Social Development participated in the Special Drive for Saturation of FRA Implementation in Hemgir block, Sundargarh. Working alongside local government officials (PRIs), we conducted special gram sabhas to raise awareness among tribal households, guiding them in applying for Individual Forest Rights (IFR), Community Forest Rights (CFR), and Community Forest Resource Rights (CFRR).

With active government and community involvement, we prepared customary boundary maps, assisted in filling community claim forms (CFR and CFRR), and gathered evidence to strengthen claims. We also facilitated joint village meetings and supported individual Forest Rights Committee (FRC) claims. To protect and regenerate forest resources, we formed committees under Rule 4(1), ensuring sustainable use of traditionally safeguarded forests.

Our initiative strengthened coordination between forest dwellers, local authorities, and stakeholders, enhancing compliance among tribal affairs, forestry, and revenue departments. By training resource persons and connecting them with communities, we reinforced outreach efforts to empower forest-dependent populations.

Climate Resilient Agriculture

The Agriculture Production Cluster (APC) initiative in Sundargarh, Odisha is designed to boost agricultural productivity and uplift farmer livelihoods. To gain insights into existing challenges, a baseline survey was conducted across Bonai and Lahunipada blocks, covering 10 villages in each and engaging a total of 800 farmers. Utilizing Participatory Rural Appraisal (PRA) tools such as Focused Group Discussions (FGDs), Wealth Ranking, and Transect Walks, researchers evaluated farming practices, social dynamics, and economic constraints. The findings highlighted a reliance on traditional agricultural methods, with limited access to irrigation facilities, modern equipment, and market opportunities. Moreover, producer group members exhibited low awareness levels, restricting their ability to integrate advanced techniques effectively.

The study underscored the benefits of structured APCs in improving resource access, strengthening financial security, and enhancing market connectivity. By forming clusters, farmers can negotiate competitive pricing and receive institutional support to advance their agricultural practices. The survey further identified crucial areas for intervention, such as capacity-building initiatives, improved seed quality, efficient water management, and government-backed assistance. Strengthening these aspects will help farmers transition toward more sustainable and profitable agricultural systems.

To ensure long-term success, implementing technical training programs, cooperative farming models, and upgraded infrastructure is essential. A phased approach, coupled with strong community participation and institutional backing, will help maximize the programme's impact. These collective efforts aim to foster economic resilience and drive significant improvements in Sundargarh's agricultural landscape.

Rallies held in Ganjam against child labour

In 7 blocks, 20 BeMC slums

PNS ■ BRAHMAPUR

A campaign against child labour was launched in Ganjam on the World Day Against Child Labour.

“There are many Government social protection schemes for the most vulnerable and poor to prevent them from becoming child labour. These schemes are essential to fight poverty and vulnerability. The Government of Odisha has food (NFSA and SFSA), livelihood (MGNREGA, OLM) and social security (NSAP, MBPS) schemes for the children and families. For the children there are scholarships, for orphans children, there are Ashrivad, PM-CARES and other protection schemes. But it is unfortunate that many eligible people are being left out due to various reasons. During the Covid-19 pandemic the situation become worse,” said Chandan Kumar Sahu of YSD. So it is essential that citizen, civil society and Government should work together to include the most vulnerable people in the social security net and overcome poverty and this will help us for a better family condition and facilitate continuance of the schooling and education of the vulnerable children, he added. “In Ganjam we have observed rally, campaign, oath taking and sloganeering against child labour and violence against children in Ganjam, Chhatrapur, Rangeilunda, Chikiti, Kukudakhandi, Digapahandi, Khallikote and also in Brahmapur city. The child rights team of Youth for Social Development (YSD) has organised the campaign in 14 Gram Panchayats in seven blocks in Ganjam and 20 slums in Brahmapur Municipal Corporation,” he told.
